The direction was:

Further direction to ensure the conceptual 1A redevelopment scenario addresses the following goals in final design:

- Cluster and minimizes the DAC footprint to maximize the available greenspace within Butler Shores Park and provide future expansion plans are feasible to do the same.
- Establish Riverside Drive as the primary public ingress/egress to the new Dougherty Arts Center.
- Addresses the challenges of parent pickup and drop off through the final design. Problem-solve with solutions such as extending the lobby entrance closer to the Riverside Drive entrance area and/or strengthening the opportunity from the sheltered parking garage.
- Include in the traffic impact analysis, the goal to reduce single-occupancy vehicular traffic on Toomey Road. Parking demands should be focused on immediate area needs with priority for the DAC building and program needs and to the greatest degree possible available for the other area needs such as PARD offices, ZACH, and park and ballfield needs. The analysis should acknowledge the heavy bike and pedestrian use (especially during area events) and reduce parking demand through use of transportation demand management strategies and transit services.
- Access to the site should seek ways to showcase and celebrate environmentally responsible modes of travel.
- Toomey road access shall be further evaluated in coordination with Austin Transportation Department and stakeholders with a goal to reach agreement on how best to reserve Toomey Road access for ADA accessibility, emergency purposes and facility support services as design work moves forward. Staff shall report back to council on their findings at appropriate phase of design process if agreement is not reached. The main objective to this approach is to reduce traffic impact and reserve pedestrian and bicycle friendly approaches along Toomey Road to the greatest degree possible.
